

The Happy Crowning Day

Eliza Edmunds Hewitt, 1899

William James Kirkpatrick

$\text{♩} = 95$

1. There's an hour which no man know - eth, Nor the
2. What a bless - èd trans - for - ma - tion, In the 3. Though our sins have been as scar - let, Let us an - gels round the throne, When the Lord shall come in glo - ry from the twink - ling of an eye, When the mor - tal shall im - mor - tal life put seek the streams that flow From the cross that rose on Cal - v'ry's rug - ged sky; All the saints shall rise to meet Him, For He call - eth for his own; They shall on! Those who love Him shall be like Him, When He com - eth from on high, At the height; He is a - ble still to keep us, And pre - sent us white as snow, When He hear the trum - pet sound - ing by and by. Are you rea - dy? rea - dy? noon - tide, at the mid - night, or at dawn. are you are you comes a - gain, as clouds of dazz - ling light.

Refrain

Look-ing for the King? Rea-dy, while you la - bor, watch and pray? Are you while you la-bor, watch, and pray?

rea-dy? rea-dy? Look-ing for the King? Rea-dy for the hap-py crown-ing day?